WILD BIRD FOOD & TREATS

SOMETHING A LITTLE DIFFERENT!

There are many ways to feed the birds in your garden. Wild Birds have different feeding and nutritional requirements, along with varying abilities to cling to feeders or the agility to feed from bird tables.

As a general rule, the broader the range of foodstuffs and methods of feeding you can provide, the greater the variety of life and colour you will attract to your garden.

SMALL ANIMAL

A NATION OF ANIMAL LOVERS

The small animal population is gradually increasing as people continue to enjoy the benefits of pet ownership.

Rabbits have seen particular growth in numbers but are possibly the most prone to diet related illnesses, highlighting the importance of feeding a quality balanced food.

Our small animal range offers a nutritionally balanced diet.

SMALL ANIMAL FEEDING GUIDE

- Rabbits and Guinea Pigs need to be fed twice daily, once in the morning and then again in the evening.
- Hamsters require good-quality food.
- A good quality earthenware food bowl is essential to keep the food clean and dry as plastic bowls small animals will chew or knock over.
- Fresh water should always be available, either using a water bowl or more hygienically a water bottle.
- The water should be ideally changed twice a day.

DID YOU KNOW?

Rabbits teeth grow continually so it is vital to provide them with a balanced diet that is high in fibre.

DID YOU KNOW?

Guinea Pigs are omnivores not herbivores and therefore require a light amount of protein in their diet.
